South Australian Prawn Co-Operative

The South Australian Prawn Co-operative are suppliers of the best prawns in the world and operate from Port Lincoln in South Australia, an area world renowned for producing the highest quality seafood products due to its enviable water quality, pristine aquatic environment and sustainably managed fisheries.

The Co-op is owned and operated by the majority of South Australian prawn fishermen and operates as a specialist supplier of the South Australian King Prawn.

The predominant prawn supplied to the Co-op is from the Spencer Gulf Prawn Fishery, which is accredited under the internationally recognised Marine Stewardship Council (MSC). The Council recognises the environmentally friendly, sustainable nature of this fishery.

The Co-op is committed to quality along the entire cold chain with the factory and vessels operating their extensive processing operations under strict quality controls to comply with AQIS (Australian Quarantine and Inspection Service) standards and their HACCP accreditation.

As well as exporting our products we are also a major domestic wholesaler of prawns and apply the same quality control principles.
